

THE VENDUE

CHARLESTON'S ART HOTEL

Overview

The Vendue is a combination of two unique boutique hotels—19 Vendue and 26 Vendue—located across the street from one another in Charleston’s historic French Quarter. 19 Vendue is housed within five historic warehouses dating back to 1780 that have been combined to form one hotel. 26 Vendue is a combination of two historic warehouses dating back to the 1800s. Due to the historic nature of the buildings, none of the hotel’s eighty-four rooms are alike and each is decorated with different period reproduction furnishings or true antiques.

Location

The Vendue is located in two historic buildings flanking Vendue Range, adjacent to Waterfront Park and the Charleston Harbor in the heart of the French Quarter, the city’s Gallery District. Fronting East Bay Street, The Vendue is a perfect base from which to explore Charleston’s famed houses, gardens, houses of worship and museums, as well as its celebrated dining and retail establishments.

Art

The Vendue was renovated and “reborn” in 2014 to create Charleston’s first hotel dedicated to the arts—in all forms. Since the hotel’s rebirth, over 300 pieces of original art have been installed for guests to enjoy by an in-house team of art curators. The main exhibition space covers the entire public spaces of 19 Vendue. Additional installations are on display in all guestroom corridors, the public areas of 26 Vendue, and within our Gallery guest rooms.

Additionally, the hotel features an artist in residence with a working studio located in the lobby area of 26 Vendue. The studio is open during daily tours with weekly appearances by the artist in residence during The Vendue’s evening Manager’s Reception.

Dining

Revival is the hotel's formal restaurant and is located on the first floor at the corner of East Bay Street and Vendue Range. The restaurant is committed to restoring and utilizing ingredients historically found in South Carolina while also providing a modern take on historically well-known recipes from South Carolina's past.

The Rooftop is located atop The Vendue and offers stunning panoramic views of Charleston's iconic skyline dominated by historic church spires, the Colonial Exchange Building and the Ravenel Bridge. Situated one block from the harbor, The Rooftop offers refreshing sea breezes, and the ideal locale for a business lunch or after-hours cocktails and tapas-sized plates.

Accommodations

Housed in two historic buildings, no two rooms at The Vendue are alike. When the downstairs served as warehouse storage during the 18th and 19th centuries, bedrooms upstairs were occupied by seafarers and fishermen. Many of these rooms retain their original architectural charms - wide heart pine floors, exposed brick, wooden beams, high ceilings and functioning fireplaces (now gas). Paying homage to the buildings' history, each room is tastefully furnished with antique and reproduction furniture evocative of Charleston's understated elegance while offering luxurious modern amenities.

About The Gallery

The Gallery is a unique event and meeting space with original artwork, exposed brick, and hardwood floors. This intimate space has a particular elegance that is unparalleled to other venues. Whether you're planning a private luncheon, dinner, reception or meeting, The Gallery is the ideal gathering space for your event.
